1. Why your opinion matters

PrevReport was built from the official forms and rules. But you use it, on real sites, for real reports. Only real use shows what is slow, unclear, missing — or wrong.

- Every answer is read by the creator of the app, Hans Tandt.
- The changes agreed on go into the next version.
- The app tells you when that version is there: a gold “New version” button appears at the top.

NOTE — A wrong rule counts most

The report goes to the committee (CPPT, CSE or ASA) and the inspection can check it. If a rule, a rate or a word is wrong for your country, tell us — with the document and article.

2. Answer and send it back

1. Answer only what you used. Leave the rest empty.
2. Give a score from 1 to 5: 1 = very bad, 3 = acceptable, 5 = very good.
3. Circle the score on paper. In Word, make it bold.
4. Add a short comment: what happened, where, what you expected.
5. Send your answers back in one of the two ways below.

You prefer	Do this
To answer online	Open github.com/Hans-Tandt/PrevReport-download → Issues → New issue → “Evaluation (English)”. A free GitHub account is needed.
To use this document	Fill in the Word file, or print the PDF. Give it to the person who gave you the app, or attach it to a new issue on the same page.

TRAP — Never write a name

Issues on GitHub are public: everybody can read them. Never write the names of people or of your company, and no confidential data. Write “a worker”, “the site”, “unit 3” instead.
